Reasons for cooperation and defection in real-world social dilemmas

(Attari, Krantz, and Weber, 2014)

Final survey. Page breaks are indicated with a horizontal line and logic branches are indicated in orange font.

Dear Participant:

Your involvement in this study will help us understand some important public policy issues. Thank you for your time and help with this effort. Please note that participation is voluntary and you can choose to stop participating at any point during the study. The survey is anonymous and no one will know what answers you give. For this reason, please do not put your name or anyone else's name anywhere in the survey. This research has been approved by the Institutional Review Board of Columbia University. Thank you again for participating in this study. There is a limit of one survey per person. If you have any questions, please do not hesitate to send me an email at: surveys.columbia@gmail.com

Sincerely,

Dr. Shahzeen Attari
